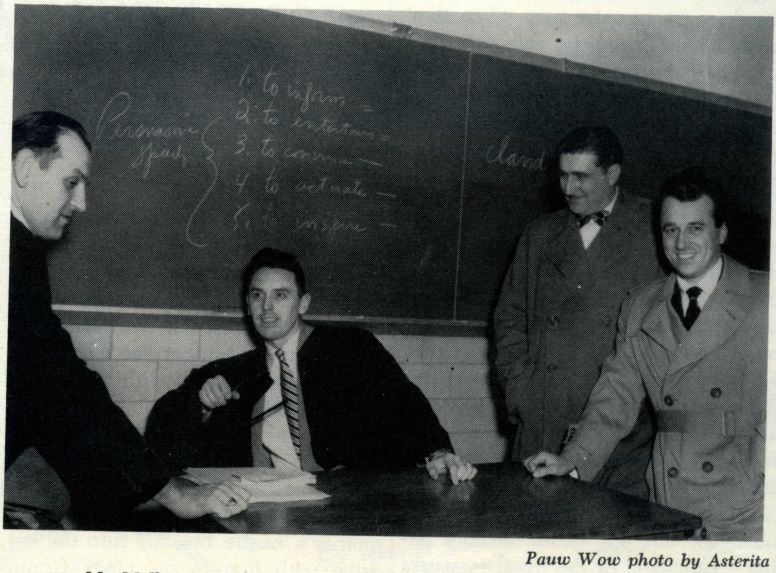
Adult Education Courses Boast Large Enrollment

A sight to humble and inspire St. Peter's students may now be seen on Tuesday and Thursday evenings here at the college. People of all ages from 18 to 74, from all walks of life, longshoreman and Nun, steamfitter and actress, patrolman, butcher, undertaker, laborer, teacher . . . all flocking to St. Peter's Adult Education Courses.



Pauw Wow photo by Asterita

Mr. Mellendick, Speech teacher in St. Peter's Adult Education Course, converses with three of his students.

Numerous reasons were advanced as to why they were taking such courses. Some people, when asked, just tightened their faces quizzically and realized that that was the first time they had considered the question. Many thus proved to themselves that knowledge may readily be its own end.

Others intend practical application in business or home life. In this respect "Better Speaking in Public" turned out to be particularly popular with salesmen and others who are prone to meeting many people in their daily activities.

Probably of most universal interest is "Practical Psychology for Everyday Living." Most subscribers hope for a more fruitful existence through application of learned principles in everyday life.

Set An Example

One man declared he was attending particularly as an example for his children. A young woman stated that she attended upon the realization of how much there is to learn in comparison to what she knew, although she is considered well educated.

(Continued on page 4, column 3)

Education

(Continued from page 3, column 4)

All those interviewed expressed complete satisfaction with the content and progress of the courses. The teachers also expressed that they found a definite pleasure in teaching such sincere and interesting groups.